

Are you a Guru of Getting It Done? A Master of Management? SAGE needs your help!

If you are one of those awesome volunteers with a knack for scheduling and research, or loves to organize and plan, we'd love to have you come onboard as one of our Go-To- Gurus! Here's some of what you could do to assist us.

- Learn about our various Workshops, Living Room Socials, Business Brownbags and special events so you can periodically schedule such events for us.
- Help connect us to more advocates for generational equity by organizing contact information for SAGE outreach campaigns.
- Spread your inspiration to others by periodically updating our generational equity library, website or Facebook page to highlight the challenges faced by younger and future generations, and solutions.
- Occasionally assist with writing and editing impactful materials. Raise awareness about grant and other funding opportunities to pursue.
- Lead or support on a wide range of office activities that keep us humming along, like filing, data entry and preparing outreach materials.
  - ✓ Very flexible time commitment. A few hours here and there really helps!

And...Why serve as our Go-to-Guru?

- Your efforts play a key role in helping SAGE build a community of advocates dedicated to creating opportunity for tomorrow.
- For every impactful program, you're on the team that makes it happen. Volunteers are the backbone of all of SAGE's programs.

How does SAGE make a difference?

Here's what some participants say:

"SAGE provides a supportive structure to help people give back in a meaningful way and in a way that benefits younger generations." – Linda Hunter

"SAGE's mission spoke to me.... I'm excited for the opportunity to network and work with others to find solutions to major social, environmental and economic challenges facing younger generations." – Rich Canaday
