The Power of Working Across Generations

Lasting change happens when generations work together. Through SAGE, people of all ages share experiences, creativity, wisdom, energy, and hope. By learning from one another and taking action together, we can create opportunities for future generations to thrive.

Why Working Across Generations Matters

- Inspires people of all ages to give forward
- Strengthens relationships across generations
- Sparks innovative solutions to complex problems
- Reduces isolation and builds community

Working Across Generations in Action

- Mentor, tutor, or coach: Share knowledge while learning from someone at a different stage of life.
- Volunteer together on a community project: Join an environmental restoration, neighborhood improvement, or community-building effort.
- Exchange skills and experiences: Younger and older adults can teach one another practical, technology, career, and life skills.
- Support and connect with others: Help families, older adults, youth, or neighbors build stronger communities together.
